SERIOUS CONFLICT HAS ARISEN BETWEEN COURTS OF VIENNA AND BERLIN

Washington, Feb. 27.—Further evidence of the growing strain of relations between Germany and Austria over the refusal of the latter to participate in the renewed attack upon Russia is given in an official dispatch received here today from France. It quotes the Austrian premier as formally reiterating on February 22 that Austria Hungary will take no part in Military action against Russia or Roumania, and will not send her troops into the Ukraine.

The dispatch refers to the meeting between Emperor Charles and William February 22, and says there seems little doubt that a serious conflict has arisen between the two nations, which Germany is determined to settle by violent measures, if necessary.

The dispatch follows: "Charles I paid a visit to William II the 2nd of February. Ludendorff was present at the interview. If we are to judge from the tone of the interview it must have been lacking in cordiality. There seems to be little doubt that a serious conflict has broken out during the week between the courts of Vienna and Berlin and which Germany is determined to settle, if need be, by violent measures."

"The internal situation of the dual monarchy is such that the Vienna government, in order to avert a catastrophe, has been obliged to distinguish, by means of public declarations, its own policy from that of Germany. The report that at the conference of February 14, Hertling and Ludendorff had decided to pay no attention to the Russian demobilization and to prepare to begin again the conflict on the eastern front caused a great stir throughout Austria. It was not simply the dissident nationalities, the Czechs, the Slovaks or the Poles, who do not desire to fight any more, but it is the mass of the population of German origin who refuse to sacrifice themselves any longer to assure the triumph of Prussian imperialism."

"An official note on the 16th had announced that Austria, for her part would continue to consider the war terminated with Russia and would abstain from taking part in the operations planned by the German command. A second note of the 19th reported the same statement. When asked to give further particulars, at the 22nd, the Austrian premier formally stated: "The words uttered by different deputes have proved that the explanation which has been furnished up to the present by me, has not been sufficiently explicit. I repeat that there is no question of having our troops penetrate into the Ukraine with whom we are at peace. I repeat that the armistice exists between Austria-Hungary and Rumania and that we are only considering entering as early as possible into peace conversations with this country."

"These declarations are serious. Without a doubt, in his speech on the 19th of February, Seydewitz pleaded his fidelity to the alliance. But more and more Germany runs the risk of seeing Austria, and after her, Bulgaria and Turkey, take a positive attitude and practically withdrawing from the struggle, while the spectators, the continuation of hostilities."

THE RIGHT SPIRIT

For the opposition in the provincial legislature, George Hoadley, leader, has made a very fair proposition to the administration. "Cordial frank and complete co-operation with the government in all matters of legislation necessary for the welfare of the people of the province," is surely all the government could wish. If it expects more than this, it will be deservedly disappointed.

Should the government decide to confine itself to such business only as is a real necessity for the successful management of the affairs of the province during war times, and undertake such business in an intelligent manner, there will be no occasion for long debates, frequent divisions or party fighting. It is assumed at the moment that neither government nor opposition of Alberta has time or thought for party gain. If that assumption is correct, the session of the legislature now commencing should be one of the most pleasant and profitable on record.

Mr. Hoadley did well to urge for development of provincial activities in connection with the war and after, upon broad lines, having special regard for greatly increased demands which are almost certain to follow the close of hostilities. We cannot plan only for the present in these matters. If we do we shall surely be caught unprepared at a time when preparation is vitally necessary for success. Taken all in all, the speech of the opposition leader was a welcome announcement, carefully worded, and leaving a strong impression on the public mind that is altogether satisfactory.

OVERHAUL YOUR FARM MACHINERY

Farm machinery is the artillery of production, and the farmer should not more think of taking his implements into action in poor repair than a gunner would of bringing up a Howitzer that would not shoot. Every "round" you make with the seed drill will back up the shots fired in France, and it is up to every farmer to see that all his machinery is ready for the "big drive" when the time arrives.

The idea of national inspection and repair work is an excellent one. Every moment lost in unnecessary delay this spring will lessen the effectiveness of our army's activities at the front. Not only does the farmer save money to each individual farmer. If you take out a drill that needs new chains or some other essential part, you are going to wait several days, perhaps before the parts can be secured. If the farmer needs new slots, or new canvas or a new sickle or something else, you can anticipate that need now, and have them on hand when they are required. If you wait until the machine is needed, every moment of delay represents so many bushels less in the bin later on.

Repair work will not benefit the repair dealers. They will eventually get these orders anyway. But they are anxious to facilitate matters as much as possible, and if the farmers respond as they should delays and tie-ups will be eliminated to a large extent. Of course, it is impossible to force breakages and accidents. The ordinary repairs that would be required to put the implements in working order are the ones to be concentrated upon at this time. A general overhauling will reveal many weak points, and especially if the machinery has been unprotected throughout the winter.

The Globe has consistently advocated the attention to these matters, and we are naturally glad to see the government taking the question up this way. The majority of farmers will realize the necessity of giving it their immediate attention, and to these we need address no words of caution. It is the fellow who procrastinates and "tattles" that we want to reach. And we want to impress on everyone concerned, the fact that the transportation question is becoming more acute as the time goes on, that it may be next to impossible to secure what you want later on.

WAR ACTIVITY

A correspondent asks if Great Britain was more active in the first year of the war than the United States.

At the outset Britain and the United States were equally unprepared. Britain had a regular army of 100,000 and about 100,000 militia, equivalent to the American National Guard. The United States had about the same forces available. Each country had to confront the problem of raising and equipping an army.

The British were able to undertake their first big offensive at Neuve Chapelle in March, 1915, 7 months after the outbreak of the war. At this time it was estimated that they had half a million men in France and 100,000 at Gallipoli. The next month it was announced in the house of commons that three quarters of a million had been sent to the war.

If the United States had done corresponding well on getting troops to France, it would have been ready for an offensive such as that at Neuve Chapelle last November. But at that time it had neither the men nor the equipment for anything of the sort. Secretary Baker hopes America will have half a million men in France in the spring, twelve months after the war began. The British were forced to provide their own artillery, and they had enough for considerable offensive within seven months. The United States will begin to get deliveries on artillery just a year after it got into the war.

Of course the war was at Britain's doors and all hands worked with feverish haste to raise and equip an army. Its record shows that it can be done by a nation with half America's population that is determined to make good.

QUEBEC GOING BETTER ON DRAFT AS TIME PASSES

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—The Military situation in Quebec is clearing. Reports received by the Military Service Council show that satisfactory progress is being made, both in the hearing of the appeals and in the apprehension of men classed as defaulters. Up to Feb. 20, 937 decisions had been rendered by the provincial appeal court in Military District No. 5 (Quebec City district).

Of these, 184 were granted exemption, 51 were refused exemption, 46 obtained temporary exemption; 68 were granted exemption till category B is called out; 95 till category C is called out; 8 until the calling out of category D, and 160 until the calling out of category E. Fifteen were granted exemption until the calling of the second class.

While detailed returns have not been received, it is intimated that later figures will show satisfactory results both in Montreal and Quebec.

All over the Dominion, coming out of class one is in progress. Questionnaires have been sent out requiring particulars both of employer and employee. Only by utilizing the resources of class one to the full, it is felt, can any further call upon the Military Service Act be obviated.

STATES MAY JOIN JAPAN IN ATTACK ON RUSSIA

Washington, Feb. 28.—An early decision probably will be reached on the momentous question of whether America and the entente allies shall join Japan in a campaign against eastern Siberia to counteract possible German activity in that quarter, and save the great supplies of military stores accumulated at Vladivostok and interior points on the Siberian railway. It had been understood that this decision might await the arrival in Washington of Viscount Ishii, the newly-appointed Japanese ambassador to the United States, but it was said tonight that new developments, including increasing pressure from Russian sources, very likely would cause a more speedy determination of the question.

It is learned that this is not regarded as a problem for the consideration at the present stage at least, of the supreme war council in France, which if it treats the subject at all, will deal with it only as a military matter after the question of policy has been decided by the governments of the entente allies and America. It is already admitted in official circles that this is a very great question indeed. A radical departure from established rules of international law, would be involved in the forcible entry of a neutral country and consideration must be given to the possible effect upon the Russian people of such a course in their relations to the present war.

Already there has been some apprehension that great numbers of Russian soldiers, rather than return to their farms and shops would voluntarily join the central armies, and some evidence of a foundation for this fear is found in Berlin dispatches announcing the influx into the German army of several regiments of Estonians.

On the other hand growing indications that Japan cannot much longer be restrained from taking some action in Siberia are causing serious consideration of the Japanese invitation to the entente allies and America to participate. The problem would be to withhold from Japan the co-operation she maintains she has the right to expect, and let her undertake single-handed the weight of the campaign in Siberia and deal without counsel from the allies with the large questions involved in the future disposition of any territory on the Asiatic mainland which she might occupy.

It is learned that the issue is now approaching the critical point in the opinion of the Japanese government, which has concluded that some action is imperative as a defensive measure against German aggression and control of the wreck of the late government machinery in Siberia.

Such information as the officials have been able to gather regarding the conditions in Siberia indicate that most of the larger cities and towns in the interior and along the line of the Siberian railroad are now under the control of the Bolsheviks. In the absence of the population is largely composed of exiles and descendants of exiles from European Russia, who, filled with hatred at monarchical institutions and imbued with anarchistic desires may be counted as radical supporters of the Bolshevik government.

NOT VERY CLEAR

Speaking at an inter-Allied labor conference in England the other day, Arthur Henderson declared that, in the view of the labor men, the war could end in only one of three ways—by absolute predominance of all militarism, by the exhaustion of the population, or by that conciler or later all belligerents will be forced to adopt conciliation.

Just what is meant by "the predominance of all militarism?" If German militarism is meant, we can understand, but are surprised that inter-Allied labor should admit even the possibility of such an ending to the war. If allied militarism is referred to, there must surely be some mistake. No Allied nation previous to the war, could be classed as a military power. At most, their military organizations were for defence purposes only, and woefully inadequate. Armies that have been created since the war began are not representative of militarism. As well term the man who fights the thug who breaks into his home a professional pugilist!

Victory for the Allied armies in Europe would not mean the predominance of militarism. On the contrary, it would mean the success of the peace lovers of the world over professional militarism, and an end to that world menace. Indeed, it is reasonably certain that not until there has been military victory for the Allies will it be possible to approach the people of Germany, who are now the tools of professional militarism, with conciliatory peace terms such as the Inter-Allied labor conference has given fullest endorsement.

MOVIES AND EDUCATION

Recognizing the merits of the movies as an educational force in the community, libraries in American cities instead of lamenting the growth of this power in the theatre, are, by close co-operation, endeavoring to direct it and raise the standard of the pictures by cultivating an appreciation in the people for better pictures.

One simple and potent means of interesting the patrons of the libraries in the better films is described in a recent issue of the Library Journal which tells of a "live wire" librarian who posts names of films which have been produced from popular class books in the library.

Says the Journal in its February issue: "The movies have been of late years the chief rival of libraries for public attention, but now it is found that the two may act in concert, to their mutual benefit and common good. Movies more and more find their subjects in great books, such as 'Quo Vadis' and 'Les Misérables' and the local library may well advertise that fact by displaying a movie poster and copies of the book in question, or of cognate books and periodical articles."

ANDREW GILMOUR M.P.P.

IS GETTING INFORMATION

Andrew Gilmour who represents Lacombe in the local legislature, wants to know a little bit about how the Province's money is being squandered by our friend the Attorney-General, and is bringing in a series of questions pertaining to expenditures in that department. This is the one great squandering department of the Alberta Government, and Chas. Cross is making the best of it he can in the interests of his political henchmen and tools. Last week Mr. Gilmour asked for a return as to the number of "Pool Room Inspectors" Attorney General Cross had been in the habit of employing, and what amount this joke inspection was costing the province. The answer was that the four pool room inspectors had during 1917 been paid $5659.27 of hard earned provincial money. This was purely and simply thrown away, as there is a large provincial police force doing the same work. The Pool Room Inspector job was created by the Attorney-General to give a few wire pullers light employment, and is only one of the "inspector" jobs put in force by Hon. Charlie. The Attorney-General has more political henchmen in his employ than all the other departments put together, and in these times of conservation the other members of the government should see that they intend to keep their jobs after some of the leaks he has noticed in the administration, and that his work will result in economy goes without saying. Just so long as no member had the courage to take these matters up they would not be remedied, but like all other shady work they cannot stand the line light.

Mr. Gilmour is congratulated on his stand for economy in our government. The province needs economy.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD SEED

There never was a time when good seed was of such importance as today. First, it is important from the standpoint of dollars and cents caused by the scarcity and high price of labor and the real money value of the seed if used for food purposes. But even beyond these it is important for the reason that today the gaunt spectre of almost certain famine, on a large scale, in more than one portion of the world, looms up as an even present nightmare, and, therefore, it is not only the duty, but the privilege of each to, as far as possible, help ward off this pending calamity. We therefore urge with all the power and persuasion we command, every farmer to be exceedingly careful about the seed he uses this spring. Make Germination Tests.

Increased production is essential. There are a number of ways by which this can be accomplished, but by far the easiest and most profitable is by use of strong vigorous seed of high germination quality. This ensures the largest possible returns with the least labor. To spend a lot of valuable time in preparing the seed bed, and then to sow weak seed is, to put it mildly, a waste of energy and to state it boldly in the light of the present day events, a crime. Weak, frosted seed has real food value it should be used for that purpose, and not scattered on and where it will blight your hopes, as all it can do is make spindly growth if it has some vitality, and rot without sending forth a blade or root if badly frosted.

GERMANY'S MEASURES TO INCREASE HER POPULATION

J. R. Gardiner in an article in The World Work, in which he deals with the preparation Germany is already making for another war to attain objects which have been proved beyond the reach of German might in this war summarizes thus, from available sources, the plans Germany is making for securing a sufficient supply of "cannon fodder" for the next trial of strength which is timed for some twenty-five years hence.

"The question which is presented to Germany of increasing her population for war purposes has been answered in many ways. The first in order of time, was the authorized and systematic ravishing of the women of Belgium and France, and the sending of the offspring of this official and bestial debauchery into Germany, to form a part of the future defense of the fatherland.

"The deportation of the men of Belgium is another phase. These men will, of course, never return if Germany can prevent it, and so will constitute an offset to increase in the male population. But they will either voluntarily or through compulsion form some sort of liaison with the surplus women of Germany and produce babies which in twenty years will be available fodder for powder. As the excess of Germany's female population is now great and will be greater after the war, this will prove also a ready means for providing for this surplus.

"We next find the German references to the so-called lateral marriages. There are hundreds of thousands of young women in Germany, capable of bearing children, who are unmarried because of the absence of their husbands at the front. To German efficiency this is a waste of human material. God would not have endowed women with such an important function if it had not been intended that she should use it. And to what better use than for the fatherland? Therefore Germany proposes to lateral marriage. A man married or unmarried—it is immaterial, only if married he must get his wife's permission—is encouraged by the government to form a temporary union with one of the neglected women (who must also obtain her husband's consent) whose consort is at war. This alliance is to last until a child is born. It is automatically to be ceased, the child being either retained by the mother or sent to an institution to be reared that he may form a part of the future national defense. It is an admirable German scheme, quite typical of the German mind which suffers agonies at the sight of anything idle that is susceptible of use.

"The next development concerns the women who have been widowed through the war and the men who have been so crippled as to be of no use in the war area. The burgomasters of the various German towns have been instructed to obtain a list of all war widows in the districts controlled by them, and also a list of all cripples. Advertisements are then to be placed in papers known to be read by women generally for wives for the deserving cripples. Thus, playing the role of cupid is being done by the government would bring together Venus and Adonis and as it is stated in the official instructions, sow the seed of a new generation which will, in the fullness of its manhood, take upon itself the national defense.

"It is somewhat difficult for us to conceive how, in this enlightened age, a supposedly civilized nation can so foul the beauty of motherhood as to turn the whole community into an official human stock farm by making brood animals out of its women. It is an indication of the moral slough into which Germany has descended so that we no longer need wonder either at the crimes committed by the German soldier against the women of France and Belgium, or of the complete breakdown of German morality."

CANADIAN GIRLS IN TRAINING

The Girl Leaders' Conference to be held in Edmonton April 12 to 14th is already being discussed by pastors, teachers and women's organizations all over northern Alberta. If you have not happened to hear about it yet make inquiry. Do you know about "Canadian Girls in Training," and the fourfold standard of development that it places before our girls of teen age? That standard simply presents an ideal. Each girl should have attained at least some part of each of the four standards (physical, social, intellectual, religious) and be striving after something beyond her present attainments. The program as outlined in this scheme can be used by any group of girls.

One of the purposes of this conference is to interest the girls in this program, and also to show them how it may be adapted to their local conditions. Girls of sixteen years and over are invited to attend the conference, and learn at first hand the principles of "Canadian Girls in Training." Information may be obtained from local workers, or from Miss Jessie E. Montgomery, Conference Secretary, Dept. of Extension, University of Alberta Edmonton South.

PROBLEMS OF THE ORGANIZED FARMERS

Some Nuts to Crack by the U.F.A.
(By S. S. Dunham, Ex-Vice-President)

Last week the writer called the readers attention to some necessary changes in our constitution and intimated that he would discuss the reasons in a later issue.

Owing to the unsatisfactory division of the Province as adopted by the U.F.A., the possibility of Local gatherings in the form of district conventions is reduced to a minimum. This applies to almost every District. Take your map and look at the Bow River Medicine Hat or the MacLeod Constituencies. Indeed it is easier for the members of some of these constituencies to get together at a point outside the Constituency such as Lethbridge or Calgary than within its borders. As a result there can be no practical co-operation of the Locals of these different Constituencies except in the general Convention. This certainly is fundamentally wrong. If the objects of our organization are to become effective the Locals of the different parts of the Province must co-operate together, not only in commercial dealings but in other matters looking to the general welfare of the local interests.

Besides this the present arrangement has a bad effect on the selection of Directors and other officials. Let us take the last Convention as an example. The writer has a high regard for the members of the different Boards of Directors with which he has been associated in the U.F.A., but all those boards the Board for 1917 stands the highest in his estimation. During the past years the writer has sat with associations of farmers, of lawyers, of teachers, of church folk and of politicians, but for ability and devotion to their ideals, patriotism, loyalty to their organization and their officials, the writer has never had the privilege of sitting in council with a finer class of men and women than the Board of 1917. We have pictures of all the Boards, but the board of 1917 hangs above the writers desk. Lets take a look at them. The executive was composed of your illustrious President Tracy, loyal and sincere though sometimes a little erroneous in judgement; that veritable encyclopedia of Canadian affairs, pugnacious, a little hard of restraint and rather ambitious, Jim Weir; That sincere high minded modest prosaic farmer, Balcer; and your humble servant. On the Directorate was Hamilton, highly educated, sincerely devoted, able; Rabin stands next to him, a Danish socialist honest to the core; Parry can only be surpassed by his illustrious wife who is also an Office member of the executive; and Hall, if you were to search the entire membership you would not find a man more devoted to the principles of the organization and with more practical judgement than Hall; Donahue and Sioane are both able Directors; Spencer, young enthusiastic, sometimes requiring a little curbing but usually all right; Blore, always on the job no matter how difficult is the task, and ready to follow his superiors with utmost enthusiasm; and Jim Miner sometimes a little radical but with a world of practical sense and submissive to the opinion of the majority. It is not necessary for me to mention the two excellent ladies Mrs Spencer and Mrs. Barrett, as we could not do them justice.

Of all the boards of the past this Board accomplished the most good and made the fewest mistakes. Lets see what happened to them. Of the executive Weir and the writer were traded for Leedy and Shepherd. So far so good, at least so far as the writer is concerned the exchange is obviously right and we are well satisfied. We like liberty and we possibly can do as much good in ranks as on the Board and can do it with less sacrifice to ourselves. You will pardon us for quoting from the report of one of the delegates what he said to his Local about himself, "when the convention pulled the harness off Dunham and turned him loose, as he started towards the herd you can hear him nicker a mile." Personally we are glad to get back to the "herd" and save no more spots in that regard. But when we heard what happened to that Board and when we realized that notwithstanding its record, but one man of the old Board was re-elected and realized too what that meant in the continuity of effort; and that no matter how good a man is, it takes him practically a year to get into the harness, we were, to say the least disappointed.

The Board for 1918 I am sure will accomplish more than the board of 1917 did, but it is impossible for them to accomplish as much as they would have accomplished if a reasonable number of the old board should have been retained in office.

The re-districting of the Province and the holding of District conventions would greatly safeguard the election of officials, and in this connection do you not think that the nomination of a Vice-President should originate and go through practically the same channel as a resolution to be presented to the Convention? We shall have something to say on this in a later issue.

EGGS BY WEIGHT

Eggs, it is said, will be sold hereafter by weight instead of number. It sounds like a plan of putting eggs on a fair basis. Twelve large eggs ought to be worth more than twelve small ones.

At the same time the consumers, who have seen so many promising reforms turned to their disadvantage, are a little dubious about this one. They fear there is a catch in it somewhere. One rather suspects if eggs are to be weighed in future, it is not going to be done for the benefit of the hen or your breakfast.

The consumer has learned to be distrustful. He fancies there must be a trick somewhere in this egg weighing scheme, and his guess is that it will not be long until hens will be fed in some special way that will induce them to lay eggs with extremely thick shells. The prospect of having to break ones egg with a hammer owing to its cement shell, is not a pleasant one.

BALEFOUR GIVES BRITISH REPLY TO HERTLING

London, Feb. 27.—Foreign Secretary Balfour, replying today to the speech of Count Von Hertling, the German Imperial Chancellor, regarding the doctrine of the balance of power, said that until German militarism had become a thing of the past and there was in existence a hall of court armed with executive powers making the weak as safe as the strong it would never be possible to ignore the principles underlying the struggle for the balance of power.

Mr. Balfour told the house of commons, which he was addressing, that he was unable to find in von Hertling's speech any basis for fruitful conversation or hope for peace. The chancellor's attitude concerning Belgium, said Mr. Balfour, was completely unsatisfactory and his lip service to president Wilson's propositions was not exemplified in German practice.

A Truck for the Farmer

FARM equipment which will effect a time and labor-saving, and therefore a money-saving, must be carefully considered by every good farmer now-a-days.

The farm wagon, which for years was the most useful of all farm equipment, is now being replaced on the best farms by a sturdy, dependable motor truck. The truck will haul any farm product—fruit, grain, vegetables, stock, fertilizer, or wood—around the farm, or to the town or city many miles distant, in half the time, and at a much lower cost.

The Ford One-Ton truck is a rapid, economical and very serviceable means of transport. One of these on your farm will save you weeks of time in a single season and will enable you to pass through a crisis of labor shortage with less difficulty.

The Ford truck is supplied as a chassis only. This permits you to select any of the many body styles especially designed for the Ford truck and already on the market. Thus you can mount the one which suits your individual requirements.

Price $750 f.o.b. Ford, Ont.

Three of the many body styles that may be mounted on the Ford truck chassis
